MAJOR ELECTIVE COURSE – I ENGLISH FOR COMPETITIVE EXAMINATIONS

Time: Three Hours Maximum: 50 Marks

SECTION A

1. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follows it (5X1=5)

The young lift-man in a city office who threw a passenger out of his life the other morning was fined, for the offence was undoubtedly in the wrong. It was a question of 'please'. The passenger entering the lift said 'Top'. The lift-man demanded 'Top, please', and this concession being refused he not only declined to comply with the instruction, but hurled the passenger out of the lift. This, of course, was carrying a comment on manners too far. Discourtesy is not a legal offence and it does not excuse assault and battering. If a burglar breaks into my house and I knock him down, the law will acquit me. And if I am physically assaulted, it will permit me to retaliate with reasonable violence. It does this because the burglar and my assailant have broken quite definite commands of the law. But no legal system could attempt to legislate against bad manners, or could sanction the use of violence against something which does not itself recognize as a legally punishable offence. And whatever our sympathy with the lift-man, we must admit that the law is reasonable. It would never do if we were at liberty to box people's ears because we did not like their behaviour, or tone of their voices, or the scowl on their faces. Our fists would never be idle, and the gutters of the city would run with blood all day.

- a) What was the discourtesy shown by the passenger?
- b) How did the lift-man retaliate?
- c) In what situation does the law acquit a person who has used violence?
- d) d) Why is discourtesy not a legal offence?
- e) e) How did the writer justify that the law is reasonable?

SECTION B

Answer all the questions (3X5=15)

1. Read the following passage and make a précis. Suggest a suitable title:

Education ought to teach us how to be in love always and what to be in love with. The great things of history have been done by the great lovers, saints, men of science and artists, and the problem of civilization is to give every man a chance of being a saint, a man of science or an artist. But this problem cannot be solved unless men desire to be saints, men of science and artists. And if they are to desire that continuously they must be taught what it means to be these things. We think of the man of science, or the artist if not of the saint, as a being with peculiar gifts who exercises more precisely and incessantly perhaps, activities which we all ought to exercise. It is a commonplace belief that art has ebbed away out of our ordinary life, out of all the things which we use, and that it is practiced no longer recognize the aesthetic activity as an activity of the spirit and common to all men. We do not know that when a man makes anything he ought to make it beautiful for the sake of doing so, and that when a man buys anything he ought to demand beauty in it for the sake of that beauty in it for the sake of that beauty if we think of it at all, as a mere source of pleasure, and therefore it means to us an ornament added to things for which we can pay extra as we choose. But neatly is not an ornament to life, or the things made by man. It is an essential part of both.
